This fall, educators will be harnessing the power of AV technology more than ever before. It’s a challenging, yet exciting transition. AV equipment can assist in this transition in a few different ways: it can help upgrade lectures from a static view to a dynamic experience that keeps students more fully engaged, lectures can be recorded for easy playback and viewing, and it helps students continue learning during a stressful time.

As schools consider their strategies, it’s important to understand what’s meant by synchronous, asynchronous and hybrid learning solutions.
